

Eldridge Glacier, Buckskin Glacier (Units 72 and 73)

Pristine watersheds with numerous unspoiled streams in southern part of unit. Dense vegetation covers the southern region while glaciers define the landscape to the north. The eastern part of unit 73 contains swan nesting sites.

Climbing and mountaineering are becoming increasingly popular in these units, which developed a reputation as a place to get away from the higher level of activity on the popular climbing routes on Mount McKinley. Air tours are increasing rapidly, especially over the Buckskin Glacier. Wilderness experience degraded by overflights and at popular climbing areas.